PLAINTIFFS' MEMORANDUM OF LAW
IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

Preliminary Statement

This is an action for declaratory and injunctive relief proximately resulting from Defendant's application to Plaintiffs of a certain provision of the Yonkers' City Code which, on its face and as applied, violates of Plaintiffs' rights as guaranteed by the First Amendment to the United States Constitution, 42 U.S.C. §1983. Plaintiffs now move for partial summary judgment for a declaration that Section 100-35 of the Yonkers City Code is unconstitutional.

The Parties

Plaintiffs are citizens of the United States, domiciliaries of the State of New York, and residents of the Northern Counties. At all times relevant to this complaint each Plaintiff worked for The Guardian News, Inc., a New York domestic business corporation having its principal office for the conduct of business at 251 North Avenue, New Rochelle, New York. On a weekly basis the corporation publishes and disseminates a free newspaper known as "The Westchester Guardian" (hereinafter "Guardian"). That publication focuses on and reports about amongst other things municipal corporate corruption in the incumbent administration of the City of Yonkers.

Defendant City of Yonkers, New York (hereinafter "City") is a municipal corporate subdivision of the State of New York duly existing by reason of and pursuant to the laws of said State.

The Facts

During the months of July and August of 2007 Plaintiffs non-disruptively distributed and/or attempted to distribute on public property in the City various editions of the Guardian -- each one of which contained editorials and/or reports critical of either the incumbent Mayor of the City and/or the City's Police Department.

As a result numerous police officers employed by the City charged Plaintiffs with violating Section 100-35 of the City's Code which in relevant part provides, without any time, place and/or manner limitations whatsoever:

“No person shall distribute, hand out or cast about any card, circular, pamphlet or printed matter within any park or upon any public place.”<sup>1</sup>

A second, identical charge was made with respect to the same conduct as engaged in by O’Neill on August 6, 2007.

<sup>1</sup> A violation of this provision would be committed by any person who, on Yonkers’ public property, distributed copies of the United States Constitution, an excerpt from the Constitution -- such as the First Amendment -- or the Bible. Violations of Section 100-35 carry a fine of up to $1,500 and fifteen days imprisonment.

POINT

SECTION 100-35 OF THE YONKERS CITY
CODE IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL ON ITS FACE AND AS APPLIED

In relevant part the at-issue Code provision absolutely prohibits (without benefit of any time, place or manner criteria) the distribution of The Westchester Guardian on public property within the City of Yonkers. Under the circumstances no particular degree of insight is required to conclude that that prior restraint is First Amendment violative.

Lusk v. Village of Cold Spring, 475 F.3d 480, 485-6 (2d Cir. 2007); Gannett Satellite Information Network, Inc. v. Metropolitan Transportation Authority, 745 F. 2d 767, 772-3 (2d cir. 1984).

Conclusion

A judgment is respectfully requested: Declaring unconstitutional on its face and as applied the referenced Code section, permanently enjoining the City from applying, with respect to Plaintiffs' non-disruptive distribution of the Guardian within the City the subject Code section, awarding costs and reasonable attorney's fees, and, granting such other and further relief as to the Court seems just and proper.
